FIVE MILLION NEW MEN IN KITCHENER'S ARMY

These Fresh Troops Will Be Hurled Against Germans in Spring

FRANCE HAS TWO MILLION MEN ALSO

It is Known That Great Britain is Making Cannon Which Will Outshoot the Great Guns of the Germans by From a Mile to a Mile and a Half—England Also Building Submarines Which Will be Used in Battling With the Undersea Boats of the Kaiser—Losses in the War are Appaiing.

(By United Press)

Philadelphia, March 22.—"When spring opens in earnest the war in Europe will develop a fury and proportion that will make what has already passed in this epoch-making and stupendous struggle of the European nations seem weak and puny by comparison. Five million fresh allied troops, which have never yet been seared by the marks of battle in this great war will be thrown against the German forces in France and Belgium, with Lord Kitchener, the great English millitary organizer, who up to this time has been content to direct operations from London, in supreme command in the field."

A Remarkable Statement

The foregoing is part of a remarkable statement of European war conditions and developments made to a representative of "The Press" yesterday by John W. Hessian, of Bridgeport, Conn., America's greatest military and sporting rifle shot and expert, holder of numerous world's records, who has but recently returned from a business trip that brought him into official contact with the English, French and Belgian military authorities from London clear out to the battle lines.

Confirms Rumors

Hessian's statement of the great body of fresh troops that England and France have prepared to throw at the Germans in a last desperate effort to drive them from French and Belgian soil is the first official confirmation of the rumors to this effect that have reached this country. His assertion that Lord Kitchener would take personal command of the troops is also startling news as it has all along been maintained that this warrior would not leave England under and conditions. Hessian's statement in part follows:

France Has 2,000,000

"France now has two million new fighting men who have been carefully held in check for a last big drive at

Paris, March 22.—Italy's entrance into the war within the next six weeks is practically certain. Only an unexpected development of international affairs will interfere with her program for war upon the side of the allies.

Crisis Has Been Reached

I have just returned from a trip to Genoa, Rome and twelve other Italian cities, going as far south as Naples, and everywhere I was assured that the crisis had come. I talked with officers, editors, men in every walk of life, and all are assured that war must come and that Italy will plunge into it soon.

All the Italian ports are [illegible] with youths who have been [illegible] from foreign countries. Naples and Genoa are alive with strong, hardy men from the United States, South America, etc.

THREE FIRES AT DU BOIS ON SUNDAY EVENING

The third in the series of fires which have visited DuBois within the past week occurred last night shorly after 8 o'clock, at which time three frame dwellings standing along the state highway and opposite the Wilson school house, just beyond the B. & S. crossing were totally destroyed. The fire started in the house occupied by Charley Sinkavich and quickly communicated to the residence of Mike Balanski standing close to it. A third house occupied by Frank Dixon, situated a few yards from the Balanski home, also took fire and was entirely destroyed. All three houses were burned to their foundations. A fourth house occupied by Frank Richman and standing somewhat removed from the Dixon home, caught fire, but was saved by hard work on the part of bucket brigade.

TO RESUME ATTACK ON DARDANELLES

(By United Press)

Paris, March 22.—Admirals of the allied fleet, who conferred aboard the French flagship Suffren Friday regarding their future course in attempting to force a passage of the Dardanelles, are believed to have decided unanimously to renew soon the general attack, says a Tenedos despatch to the Havas agency.

The French battleship Gaulois, the despatch says, which was badly damaged along the water line by shells from the Turkish forts, is anchored in deep water off Mavrais island, while her sister ship, the Charlemagne, is standing by to offer assistance if it is needed. It has been found difficult to make immediate repairs to the Gaulois because of stormy weather and high seas.

Complete details of the damage suffered by the forts has not been obtained, but the allied commanders believe it was serious. Fort Kum Kaleh which has been repaired by the Turks, directed an accurate fire against the warships.

Torpedo boats are dragging along the shores of the Dardanelles for the bodies of drowned sailors.

London, March 1.—The most picturesque and weird hours of all the life in the trenches is the time between sunset and the fall of darkness.

If the real picture were put on the stage it wouldn't be believed. As you sit and watch it yourself, you feel that your eyes and mind are deceiving you. As the sun sinks and grows red and the shadows grow long, the gulch of the trench fills with early night. It begins to grow cold and the frost crystals form on the muddy sides of the trenches, giving the effect of tinsel or bits of bright stones. The darkness of the trench is broken, now and then, by the flare of a cigar-

MONDAY, MARCH 22, 1915

Good evening! Evil to him who thinks evil, is a motto which you should ponder upon occasionally.

Still, it would help some if the dirt in backyards were to be hauled to the dump.

While it was at it, council should have abolished all of Stinky run, or at least its unsavory name.

Amateur gardeners are taking time by the forelock and have already set out their little onions.

The man who or newspaper which repeats a falsehood is meaner than the person who originated the lie.

Be charitable; some men's brains have been withered and warped by the use of strong drink in their younger days

Democrats in the state legislature occupy the positions of neutrals who are ready to join the anti-Brumbaugh forces, if called upon.

And now Germany has gone the whole hog and placed one million pigs in Belgium, compelling the Belgians to feed and care for them

The next two years will go slowly, but they will pass and take with them the last Democratic president to sit in the White House for many years to come.

Competent architects are now drawing the plans and specifications of the Easter bonnet, and a gorgeous arrangement of straw, feathers and ribbons may be looked for.

If the big city hunters want anything from the state legislature all they have to do is to ask for it; the country hunter, being modest takes what is given him.

These Turks and their German gunners are doing some damage to the fleet of the allies in the Dardanelles, which was to be expected, as war is by no means one-sided.

Lord Kitchener is said to have a new army of five million men ready to enter the war, and it looks as if the English have become aware that it is time for them to do some fighting.

An Indianapolis citizen testified in court that at a recent election he voted twenty-two times, a statement which will make the average Republican repeater in Philadelphia consider himself a piker.

Austria may break with Germany over the latter's demand that Emperor Franz Josef shall give Italy part of his possession to prevent Italy entering the war. The troubles of the War Lord appear to be multiplying.

The shooting of strikers by armed ruffians at Roosevelt, N. J., should cause the people of that state to demand the establishment of a state constabulary such as that in Pennsylvania. State constables never shoot down defenseless men.

Bills providing pensions for school teachers and Pennsylvania soldiers of the civil war will be introduced into the state legislature, but only for effect; the Republicans have no intention of passing any bills of this character at this time.

A bill introduced into the state legislature prohibits the killing of foxes otherwise than by racing them with horses and hounds, which bill, if it passes, would benefit the few rich people who indulge in fox chases in the eastern part of the state

In New York [illegible] school pupil who displayed [illegible] ordinary ability as a student was made a prisoner by the other students and fed some poison, causing his death. Public school boys are aping the tricks of big college students just a little too closely.

England's stress of mind may be understood when it is stated that class distinctions may be thrown overboard as a result of the war. An Englishman is a great stickler for class distinction—that social rule which calls a well dressed man a gentleman while his brother in ordinary clothes would be ignored by British society.

WANT IN FIRST PLACE

Notwithstanding the various warnings they have received from the voters of the state that further attempts to defeat the will of the people would result disastrously to the Republican party the leaders of that party now propose to amend the ballot law in such a manner that it would be impossible for the opponents of the Republican party to combine after the primaries. A bill to this effect has already been introduced in the state legislature.

If this bill becomes a law it would deprive the voters of the Democratic and Washington parties fusing after the primaries, if they felt disposed to do so. Every blow struck at fusion is a blow against popular government. When the people are prevented from voting as they please they are deprived of their rights as American citizens. The Republican party in this state has prepetrated numerous very unpopular political offenses, but it should have learned by this time that the people will not submit to being deprived of their right to combine to defeat rascality.

HEATHENISH VANDALISM

News dispatches state that on Friday night persons unknown entered the cemetery at West Catasaqua, Lehigh county, and completely ruined a large number of the tombstones and monuments. These were overturned and broken and others scratched and otherwise mutilated. One cannot help but pause to wonder to what class of human beings the men who committed this crime belong and what sort of material composes the contents of their skulls. There must have been quite a number of persons engaged in this vandalism, hence it cannot be ascribed to a single lunatic suddenly imbued with a desire to destroy man's work.

West Catasaqua cannot be proud of the thought that she harbors within her confines men who are so low as to desecrate a graveyard by tearing down tombstones and monuments erected over the graves of the dead. And yet there must be such men in that town. Possibly there are the kind of men who are found in almost all towns. Degenerates who imagine that they are having fun when they engage in crimes of this kind. Possibly these men, when younger, displayed in the streets of West Catasaqua traits of meanness which were overlooked by the citizens and ignored by the police, until these men believed they could do about as they pleased and the authorities would say nothing.

It is too often the case that what are called "rough necks" are permitted to have their own way in a town simply because they have friends in authority as burgesses or policemen. If a little more attention were paid to the antics of disturbers of the peace who give their exhibitions of "rough house" on the streets offenders against the peace of the community would not become bolder with the passage of the years and finally commit such crimes as that reported from West Catasaqua. The history of criminology proves that it does not pay a municipality to overlook or condone offenses against law and order in any of its citizens.

TODAY'S ODDEST STORY

(By United Press)

Minneapolis, Minn., March 22.—Diogenes may be headed toward Minneapolis today. Again he may not be. But if he is, he will find his honest man. He is Stanley Sallant, former dairyman at New Brighton, Minn. Just now Sallant gets his mail at the county jail. Asked during an investigation why milk is sometimes blue, he replied that he supposed other milkmen like himself watered it. It is the first time in the history of the world, so far as known, that a real dairyman has admitted the co-operation of the pump. He got ten days.

OVER THE HILLS

Oft when the world and I were younger,
Oh, we are old, so old, today,
I longed to go over the great hills yonder,
Into the world, so far away.
When the years came I met them gladly,
Oh, but they seemed so long to stay,
I hoped that each over the hills would lead me
Into the world, far away.

Care they brought me, and bitter sorrow,
Long grew the nights, and long the day,
But I dreamed of the path the great hills over,
Into the world, and far away.
"Soon thou shalt see it," my heart said to me,
"Bid thy time till the happy day;
Thou shalt go wandering the great hills over,
Into the world and far away."

Ah, but still I bide in the valley,
Darker the nights and longer the day;
And I never shall pass the great hills over,
Into the world so far away.
Many a dream had I of its beauty,
The great, fair world, so far away,
And many a song I wove about it,
I have forgotten them all today!

FRISCO GUIDES ARE UNIVERSITY MEN

San Francisco, March 22.—Twenty-three universities are represented in the 59 guides employed by the Panama-Pacific exposition to assist visitors in seeing the fair.

"We are supposed to answer all questions within reason," said one of the guides today, "but we certainly do get some posers. A woman in the Fine Arts palace asked me to explain to her the meaning of a certain bronze piece of sculpture. I said it was a certain sculptor's conception of Eve. New York's Dope Fiends Easily Evade the Law

By Carlton Ten Eyck

(Written for the United Press)

New York, March 22.—New York's three hundred odd thousand drug users—"dope fiends"—will not suffer through the workings of the new Harrison federal law which places restrictions on the sale of the "hop." They will continue to get their allotments of "snow" and "coke" through the same channels that supplied them before the law went into effect.

While the vast armies of users in Chicago, San Francisco, St. Louis, Cleveland and Boston are suffering slightly because of the curtailment of their supplies, New York's goes on sniffing day by day, their complexion becoming more sallow, their cheeks more hectic and their eyes more bright with an unnatural lustre.

It is not due to any laxity of the law in New York The authorities are just as vigilant, perhaps more so, than in the foregoing cities but what can they do? It's a question that Inspector Dwyer of "drug squad" fame would give a pretty penny to know.

"This Harrison law helps these other states," said the inspector today, "but right here in New York where the traffic is perhaps worse than any place in the world, it doesn't help us. You see we have a law in New York state for years which places practically the same restrictions on the sale of drugs as does the Harrison law. We have enforced it to the very letter, too, but the traffic still goes on and I can see no way of stopping it until our lawmakers really become cognizant of the deadliness of it.

Our law here makes it a criminal offense to sell cocaine, heroin, and morphine without a physician's prescription. The drug stores are supposed to keep a record of their sales When they get in, say ten pounds of cocoaine, they are supposed to have a record of where every ounce of that stuff went when they have sold it. We saw to it that they did, too.

"Immediately after the law went into effect there arose in New York a vast army of physicians who do nothing but write prescriptions for drugs. Crooks? Sure, they're crooks—they work in teams with the crooked druggists and New York gets its sniffs daily—and, mind you, under the law. We know it, but we con do nothing.

"For instance, we'll say you are a druggist with ten pounds of cocoaine. A physician who holds the same license that any reputable one does, writes you out prescriptions for ten pounds—making them in sufficient quantites as to make them appear regular.

"We know this druggist is selling cocaine. We raid him. He produces these prescriptions. That safeguards him. We go to the doctor that wrote them. He laughs in our faces. A man came into his office and complained of a toothache and he prescribe drugs to kill the pain, a thing which he had a perfect right to do. There you are—what are you going to do? Go to the man who had the toothache—he says he did have the pain—what are you going to do?

"That is only one phase of it. Many druggists have organized bands that sell it on the streets. The stuff is made up in what we call "decks," very small and extremely easy to hide, or get rid of. They slip it into each other's pockets in the subway, on the elevated; they'll place it in an empty cigarette box and throw it into the gutter—oh, they're an ingenuous bunch. And a drug fiend is always good pay—for his drugs. If he doesn't pay, then his supply is cut off and he suffers the torture of the damned

[illegible] profit to be made in this traffic is the [illegible] lure that [illegible] druggists and doctor's crooked. An ounce of heroin, the most commonly used drug, costs wholesale about $3.70 Made up in decks and distributed to the ultimate consumers it nets about $30. Thus the street man makes about $20 to $25 clear profit above all overhead expenses. If he has a good trade—think what his profits must be!

"I had a plan once to stop this—that was a license only a few physicians of known repute to prescrib the stuff. But the lawyers said such an act would not be constitutional and we had to pass it up.

"The white light district is, of course the worst. A great percentage of the users are theatrical folk, who take it to get the hour's vim and "pep" it contains. Along Broadway from the twenties to the sixties, where the lights shine brightest and the women kick higher, there you'll find the great army. And, as I said before, what are we going to do?"

"COURT FANS" THRONG AT BOSTON TRIALS

(By United Press)

Boston, March 22.—Veteran court officers and reporters have discovered a new class known as "Court Fans" and these devotees of sensational testimony are running neck and neck in enthusiasm with the energetic baseball fan and the quiet, but eager, "movie fan. Of late they have been having their full share "snappy" cases, taking in each performance of the famous "Toodles" Ryan breach of promise suit,, the Herrick-Waitt case, where a young wife's love got mixed up with the wrong man, the Fairfield-Fitzpatrick tangle. Now they have all assembled to hear the Cabot will trial.

The "Court fans" have a little on the "movie" fans and the baseball fans on account of no admission being charged at the court room. However, it appears they will soon have a gloomy time as the list of sptctacular trails will be exhausted when the Cabot case is finished unless sympathetic parties start something.

TYPEWRITER MAKER SAYS PROSPERITY IS COMING

An indication that business conditions are improving is evidenced by an interview given out today by Mr. George E. Smith, President Royal Typewriter company.

"The typewriter business," said Mr Smith, "is rather a barometer of trade on account of its close association with the office end of every line of business, and our business has felt the improvement in trade conditions and the reports from our branches in almost every part of the United States have been increasing optimistic

"We haven't waited for the improvement to overtake us, however, before taking advantage of it. We learned a lesson in that regard from the automobile people. They seemed to find a way of keeping just a little in advance of what was happening, and by the use of persistent newspaper advertising they create a big new crop of automobile buyers each year. I know from experience that many automobile prospects are actually sold three and four years before they actually buy or have the money to buy. Men like Hugh Chalmers, John N. Willys, H. W. Ford, the Studebakers, Haynes, the Hudson, J. J. Cole—create demand for their cars in this way year after year successfully.

"I will say, frankly, that our determination to increase our advertising and sales work was influenced by the example of these men, who had refused to believe business was bad, and so kept up their advertising and made business good.

"The automobile manufacturers that are making the biggest successes are those who have produced the right car for the people and then told the people what it was and where to get it. So it is with us in the typewriter business.

"We have looked ahead and figured out what the people wanted, and what would best suit the business man in typewriters. We made that sort of typewriter, and now we are telling the business man about it. Unless we tell them about it, we would have to wait a long time for the majority to find it out

"I think it just as important to tell people about a good typewriter as it is to make a good typewriter in the first place. Our increased output was 25 per cent up to March 15th. We have to curb our organization from being too optimistic over the outlook but conditions certainly warrant me in saying that 1915 is going to be the Royal's banner year in the domestic trade."

THREE YEANS' FIGHT AGAINST THE HOOKWORM

(By United Press)

Dallas, Texas, March 22.—A three year's fight on hookworm disease is nearing completion today under the auspices of the State Hookworm commission. During this period the commission has examined in an area of 36,000 square miles inhabited by 1,300,000 people. Microscopic examinations to the number of nearly 65,000 have been made and perhaps 25,000 treatments have been dispensed. Among children examined the number infected was over 35 per cent.

The hookworm disease is popularly known for its effect of laziness. Dr. O. H. Judkins of the State Hookworm commission, who said it would take one or two generations to eradicate the disease in Texas, also declared:

"There is no doubt but what Texas suffers an economic loss every year because of this disease. For instance, if 1,000 heads of families in any given county are suffering from a disease that reduces their earning capacity from 10 to 25 per cent, it is not hard to see where the county and state are losing because of decreased production. It is easy to see, also that the state is squandering money by employing teachers to teach children whose efficiency is reduced on an average 25 per cent."

Hookworm is common in warm places where the inhabitants go barefooted for any length of time. The commonest infection is through the soles of the feet. The work is less than one inch in length and has the appearance of a bit of soiled coarse thread. The female lays thousands of eggs in the human intestinal tract. A certain cure is not known to doctors.

HERE'S CHANCES TO KICK WHEN COOKING IS BAD

(By United Press)

St. Paul, Minn., March 22.—For years Rep. L. A. Lydiard ate in alleged boarding houses of Minnesota and suffered. Then he began to ascend the social scale and finally became elected representative. One of the first official [illegible] was to introduce a bill which [illegible] force cooks in boarding houses and restaurants to pass an examination and secure a license. Cooks not having the official document may be prosecuted for malplactice. Being drunk for more than six continuous months is sufficient ground for revoking the license. Persons having a grievance against any cook may lay it before the board, which has the authority to call the alleged culinary offender before it, and if the allegations of the boarder are proved, the cook's license may be revoked.

Annexation Election

(By United Press)

Los Angeles, March 20.—Whether 120,000 acres in the San Francisco valley, the largest tract ever proposed for annexation to Los Angeles will ask for admission to the city is today being passed upon by the voters of the valley. If they favor annexation Los Angeles citizens will vote upon it.

RECIPE TO CLEAN A PIMPLY SKIN

Pimples are Impurities Seeking an Outlet Through Skin Pores.

Pimples, sores and boils usually result from toxins, poisons and impurities which are generated in the bowels and then absorbed into the blood through the very ducts which should absorb only nourishment to sustain the body.

It is the function of the kidneys to filter impurities from the blood and cast them out in the form of urine, but in many instances the bowels create more toxins and impurities than the kidneys can eliminate, then the blood uses the skin pores as the next best means of getting rid of these impurities which often break out all over the skin in the form of pimples.

The surest way to clear the skin of these eruptions, says a noted authority, is to get from any pharmacy about four ounces of Jad Salts and take a tablespoonful in a glass of hot water each morning before breakfast for one week. This will prevent the formation of toxins in the bowels. It also stimulates the kidneys to normal activity, thus coaxing them to filter the blood of impurities and clearing the skin of pimples.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, harmless and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia. Here you have a pleasant, effervescent drink which usually makes pimples disappear; cleanses the blood and is excellent for the kidneys as well.

FRENCH SCIENTISS HELP SOLDIERS WOUNDED IN WAR

Paris, March 5:(By Mail to New York)—French science has again come to the aid of the wounded in the present war. Bullets and shrapnel fragments deeply imbedded in the flesh can now be extracted without the deep probing and incisions formerly necessary.

The new method of bringing these projectiles to thesurface of the flesh by means of electric magnets has just been presented to the Academy of Medicine by professor Bergoine, the discoveror. As practically all bullets and shrapnels used in modern warfare are of steel they are capable of being magnetized and are subject to magnetic influence.

Professor Bergoine simply applies to the outside of the wound a highly potential magnetic current. This suffices to dislodge the projectile from the flesh and brings it gradually toward the surface. To prevent any further tearing of the flesh the current is applied only for a few seconds each day and the projectile is drawn so gradually towards the surface as to cause neither irritation nor pain. Finally only a slight superficial incision of the surgeon's knife is necessary for the final extraction.

The method is to be introduced at once in the military hospitals all through France.

For the first time since the foundation of the "Prix de Rome," the most coveted art scholarship in the world, the famous Villa Medici at Rome which houses France's prize students in architecture, sculpture, painting and music is without tenants With the outbreak of the war, all of the prize winners responded to the call to arms with the exception of two. These were Mademoiselle Heuvelmans and Mademoiselle Lili Boulanger,the first two girls ever to be awarded the grand prize. They at once applied for a year's leave of absence in which to serve as Red Cross nurses at the front and the Minister of Public Instruction together with the Academy of fine Arts have just granted their request.

Esperanto is hereafter to play its part in the settling of the war. Recently Germany conceived the idea of translating all of its official communications into Esperanto and sending them free of charge the world over to all devotees of the language.

Now a committee has been organized at Paris composed of such distinguished Esperantists and men as M. Appell, G. Bigourdan, His Royal Highness Prince Bonaparte, Gaston Bonnier, Dr. Charles Bouchard, Count de Gramont, General Sebert and other members of the institute. They will prepare literature in Esperanto, demonstrating the alleged untruthfullness of the German communications and give it an equal world-wide gratuitous circulation amongst Esperantists.

Imagination balks at the magnitude of $2,000,000. Only when it is translated into terms of purchasing power does it become comprehensible.

Two million dollars, for example, will support more than 2000 families of moderate income for a year.

Two million dollars will buy more than 200,000 barrels of flour, more than 50,000 sewing machines or 80,000 suits. It will give work for an entire year to 2000 men and women engaged in various productive industries and other occupations that add to the common welfare of the people in all walks of life.

It is $2,000,000 a year that the Full Crew—"excess man crew"—Laws compel the railroads of your States to pay in unearned wages. These laws deprive you of improvements for safety and comfort in travel that this money, now used unproductively, would provide.

How much longer in these times when economy is a universal necessity are you willing to endure this tremendous waste? In the end the cost bears upon you, either in increased rates or decreased service.

Will you use your influence in urging that the people's elected Representatives at Trenton and Harrisburg work and vote for repeal of the Full Crew Laws and place control of the proper manning of trains in the hands of the Public Service Commissioners?

FEMALE BEAUTY, BUT AT WHAT AN AWFUL COST!

(By United Press)

Cleveland, O., March 22.—And now comes Dr. Martin Friedrich, chief of the bureau of communical diseases, taking the joy out of life. Analyzing death statistics, Dr. Friedrich declares the high death from pneumonia and influenza among young women is a result of the wearing of low necked dresses and thin clothing. The physician agrees with Miss Average Girl's Assertion that low necks are healthful—in the proper climate—but Cleveland's weather is too changeable.

Explaining "Memory."

When you speak of others as having a good memory, you do not mean that at all Instead of meaning that the man with a "good memory" has accurately perceived an event in the full ramifications of all its details, and recorded it in his whole human texture ready for reproduction at will, what you really indicate is that he has good power of retention, irrespective of detailed accuracy or faithfulness of the full recollection.—Dr. Leonard Keene Hirshberg

NIGHT IN TRENCHES KEEPS SOLDIERS ALWAYS ON ALERT

ette, puffed nervously, or by the flare of a rifle.

Silhouetted against the red sky is the erect figure of a Legion soldier, his glistening bayonet protruding above the trench walls and catching the dying glare of the sun's light. Further along are the ugy shadows of the machine guns, brightened by the polished brass work.

Flashing Messages

As the darkness grows deeper you catch a glimpse of a sharp pin point of light on a distant hill, which flickers, in the Morse code, a message from a French battery to its comrades many miles distant. They are talking of some new plot to kill human beings. There is a rattle of rifle, and then quick flashes, first at one point in your trench, and then in another. From afar comes the putt! putt! putt! of a Maxim gun. Nightfall is the machine gun's hour. During the hours of daylight, the machine gun men have got their ranges and fixed their aims, and now, in the darkness, when their precious guns are safest from sharpshooters, they flare out the result of the day's work.

From distant corners of the compass comes the roar of deep throated batteries.

Watching for Attacks

The stars seem all the brighter, because you are gazing at them from the bottom of your black trench. Suddenly the sky is bi-sected by an arc of sparks, terminated by a beautiful glare of pure white light, which transforms night into day for the space of many seconds. It is a night light sent up by the enemy so that they can see what we are doing. We might possibly, they think, be out of our trenches, with our bayonets fixed, charging on them through the darkness. After the white light fades the night seems darker than ever.

The bullets whistle and shriek overhead almost instantly, and all the night it will be like this, noises and lights, noises and lights. The night is filled with danger and surprises. Daylight charges were never made; it was in the night time, in the smallest, wierdest hours, that either the Germans left their trenches or we left ours, to run ahead into a hand to hand stabbing affray with the enemy.

Sight of Good Cheer

The grey of morning is a sight of good cheer. In our trench we measured the morning light by whether or not we could see the legs of "the juggler" fluttering in the wind.

"The juggler" was the corpse of a Frenchman which for six weeks lay some two hundred feet in front of our trenches, lying on his back, with arms outstretched, a canvas water bucket clutched in each hand, his legs sticking up into the air, in a spot so deadly from rifle fire that no one could reach him. The dead man lay there through the nights and days. The French called this grotesque heap "The Juggler" because they remembered that Japanese athletes stretched themselves out in this dead Frenchman's posture and tossed things about in the air with their feet.

When the rags on the legs of the "Jugler" were plainly seen, then we knew that morning had come, another night of madness had passed, and we might sleep until the night lights and the night noises broke out again at sunset.

the Germans. These men are being moved up to the front so that a big movement can be started all along the line. England will have three million more men in the fray when this move begins. Nearly a million and a half of these men have been sent across the English channel in the last few months and the rest are being rushed across every day. This movement of troops is one of the most marvelous things about the war, not a single man having yet been lost.

Losses Appalling

"The most appalling thing about the great conflict is the absolute disregard for material, both human and mechanical. Men are being killed or broken by the millions. Those who can be saved are patched up and thrown back into the fight again, while the countries are being scoured for fresh material. It is almost too staggering a figure to imagine the amount of guns, shells and other kinds of war equipment that is being reduced to junk every hour of the fight.

"Of course, I had no chance to study the German side of the question, but even they are the marvel of their rivals. How this one nation can supply and equip its forces and keep them up to the highest point of fighting efficiency in the material line, while the allies are constantly striving to keep up to the required standard is a source of great amazement. To my mind it is a question of resources and the side that first fails in this respect must go down to defeat.

German Guns Beaten

"But little has been permitted to leak out, even to the newspapers on the other side, of the preparations that England and France, but particularly the former, are making for the main drive in the spring. One of these things that has consumed the English attention has been the making of great field guns to outshoot the marvelous 42-centimetre guns of the Teutons. Leading English authorities admitted to me that they are going to give the Germans a surprise in this respect as soon as operations are opened up. The English have rushed to completion a number of big guns that will shoot as accurately and at least a mile and a half farther than the greatest the Germans have produced. This, if it proves out, will make a vast difference in the fighting along the French front.

Build Speedy Submarines

"England has also not been idle in the matter of submarines. The British have been taught a lesson by the Germans that they will long remember. Since the first successful German operations last fall the English navy yards have been working night and day to turn out larger and speedier submarine boats than those of the Germans and they are going to meet the enemy at his own game. These new English boats have the marvelous speed of thirty-one knots an hour which will make them not only faster than the German boats, but also able to outfoot the best cruisers and battleships. Besides they will have a greater cruising radius."

Laymen's association met in the Presbyterian church. A number of addresses and reports were made. The membership has greatly increased owing to many revival meetings held throughout the state and country.

Governor Brumbaugh, who was to have been present at the session Saturday afternoon, sent a message expressing his inability to attend.

The anniversary meeting of the Conference Annuity and Preachers' Aid society, in the First Methodist church Saturday night, was preceded by the Drew Alumni association banquet at Edgewood park in the afternoon, each event attracting a large crowd. The anniversary of the Woman's Home Missionary society also drew many people. Mrs. James Skillington, Bloomsburg, presided. Preceding that meeting the Mutual Beneficial association held a banquet at Edgewood park.

The first Methodist church contained more than 1000 listeners yesterday when Bishop William Burt, Buffalo, delivered the forty-seventh annual conference sermon. Bishop Burt is trying earnestly to have the convention business end today.

The following ministers were ordained: Rankin S. Caldwell, Mercersburg; Luther W. McGowen, York Springs; John T. Williamee, Coalport. Those made deacons were Harry L. Jarrett, Cross Fork; J. Earl Jacobs, Selinsgrove; Irvin S. Hodgson, Snowshoe, Charles T. Himes, Millerstown; Franklin A. Lawson, Stormstown; Ada M. Nagey, Hazleton; Albert R. Harper, Penfield; L. Elbert Wilson Jeddo.

Distance of Moon From Earth.

Prosaically, the moon is distant from the earth a little less than 240,000 miles, or less than ten times the circumference of the earth. This is very close for a planetary neighbor, and especially one so powerful as this erratic satellite, the diameter of which is 21,162 miles and its mass being much greater than that of any satellite of any other planet of our solar system, Mars having two, Jupiter seven, Saturn ten, Uranus four and Neptune one.

MOTHERS PENSION BILL SHOULD BE PASSED

Pittsburg, March 22.—The mothers' assistance bill, appropriating $800,000 to assist Pennsylvania mothers in rearing their children in their own homes, which was introduced in the legislature by Representative John W. Vickerman, of the Twelfth Allegheny county district, will be reported almost immediately by the house committee on pensions and gravities. The Vickerman bill was carefully prepared after a conference of the Mothers' Pension league of Allegheny county and members of the mothers' assistance boards of the various counties and it conforms in a general way with the bill introduced in the senate earlier in the session by Senator Edward C. Patton, of Philadelphia.

Mothers' pension advocates have been assured by legislative leaders that the Vickerman bill will receive practically the unanimous support of both branches of the general assembly and the result will be that Pennsylvania will have the most liberal and one of the most practical mothers' assistance acts in force among the states of the union. Governor Martin G. Brumbaugh expressed himself as heartily in favor of the Vickerman bill in conversation with the Rev. Dr. J. Leonard Levy, of Pittsburg, president of the Mothers' Pension league.

Favorable action on Representative Vickerman's bill will inaugurate an era for propaganda for mothers' pensions in the fact that the new law will provide for a state organizer whose duty it will be to interest the officers of the various counties in enforcing the act in their respective districts. This feature will have international discussion at the convention of prominent educators and advocates of mothers' pensions at San Francisco exposition July 20, 21 and 22.

STATE COLLEGE EXPERT GIVES HOME ORCHARD SUGGESTIONS

State College, March 22.—The following timely advice on establishing a home orchard has been given by Professor M. G. Kains, head of the department of horticulture, of the Pennsylvania State college

He said the home orchard should provide a succession of fruit for the greater part of the year, beginning with early cherries in July and ending with late apples. It should include also pears, peaches, plums, quinces, grapes, and all the bush fruits—currants gooseberries raspberries, blackberries and strawberries According to Professor Kains, this planting plan should furnish to the family table a daily supply of home grown fruit.

In choosing varieties, Professor Kains would select both early and late kinds; kinds suited to dessert, to cooking and preserving, and some to suit personal preferences. For instance, his list of apples to cover the season from August to May would include one or more trees of the following varieties: Primate, Sweet Bough, Early Harvest, Yellow Transparent, Chenango Strawberry, Oldenburg, Gravenstein, St. Lawrence, Fameuse, Fall Pippin, Hawley, Smokehouse, and others.

If he were restricted as to land, Professor Kains would prefer to devote less space to apples and more to pears because they are not so widely grown for the market. His list of pears would include only high quality varieties, such as the following: Tyson, Bartlett, Clapp's Favroite, Flemish Beauty, Sheldon, Seckel, Angouleme, Bosc, Anjou, Howell, Vermont Beauty, Lawrence, Comice and Easter Beurre.

FIVE MILLION NEW MEN IN KITCHENER'S ARMY

These Fresh Troops Will Be Hurled Against Germans in Spring

FRANCE HAS TWO MILLION MEN ALSO

It is Known That Great Britain is Making Cannon Which Will Outshoot the Great Guns of the Germans by From a Mile to a Mile and a Half—England Also Building Submarines Which Will be Used in Battling With the Undersea Boats of the Kaiser—Losses in the War are Appaiing.

(By United Press)

Philadelphia, March 22.—"When spring opens in earnest the war in Europe will develop a fury and proportion that will make what has already passed in this epoch-making and stupendous struggle of the European nations seem weak and puny by comparison. Five million fresh allied troops, which have never yet been seared by the marks of battle in this great war will be thrown against the German forces in France and Belgium, with Lord Kitchener, the great English millitary organizer, who up to this time has been content to direct operations from London, in supreme command in the field."

A Remarkable Statement

The foregoing is part of a remarkable statement of European war conditions and developments made to a representative of "The Press" yesterday by John W. Hessian, of Bridgeport, Conn., America's greatest military and sporting rifle shot and expert, holder of numerous world's records, who has but recently returned from a business trip that brought him into official contact with the English, French and Belgian military authorities from London clear out to the battle lines.

Confirms Rumors

Hessian's statement of the great body of fresh troops that England and France have prepared to throw at the Germans in a last desperate effort to drive them from French and Belgian soil is the first official confirmation of the rumors to this effect that have reached this country. His assertion that Lord Kitchener would take personal command of the troops is also startling news as it has all along been maintained that this warrior would not leave England under and conditions. Hessian's statement in part follows:

France Has 2,000,000

"France now has two million new fighting men who have been carefully held in check for a last big drive at

Paris, March 22.—Italy's entrance into the war within the next six weeks is practically certain. Only an unexpected development of international affairs will interfere with her program for war upon the side of the allies.

Crisis Has Been Reached

I have just returned from a trip to Genoa, Rome and twelve other Italian cities, going as far south as Naples, and everywhere I was assured that the crisis had come. I talked with officers, editors, men in every walk of life, and all are assured that war must come and that Italy will plunge into it soon.

All the Italian ports are [illegible] with youths who have been recalled from foreign countries. Naples and Genoa are alive with strong, hardy men from the United States, South America, etc.

THREE FIRES AT DU BOIS ON SUNDAY EVENING

The third in the series of fires which have visited DuBois within the past week occurred last night shorly after 8 o'clock, at which time three frame dwellings standing along the state highway and opposite the Wilson school house, just beyond the B. & S. crossing were totally destroyed. The fire started in the house occupied by Charley Sinkavich and quickly communicated to the residence of Mike Balanski standing close to it. A third house occupied by Frank Dixon, situated a few yards from the Balanski home, also took fire and was entirely destroyed. All three houses were burned to their foundations. A fourth house occupied by Frank Richman and standing somewhat removed from the Dixon home, caught fire, but was saved by hard work on the part of bucket brigade.

TO RESUME ATTACK ON DARDANELLES

(By United Press)

Paris, March 22.—Admirals of the allied fleet, who conferred aboard the French flagship Suffren Friday regarding their future course in attempting to force a passage of the Dardanelles, are believed to have decided unanimously to renew soon the general attack, says a Tenedos despatch to the Havas agency.

The French battleship Gaulois, the despatch says, which was badly damaged along the water line by shells from the Turkish forts, is anchored in deep water off Mavrais island, while her sister ship, the Charlemagne, is standing by to offer assistance if it is needed. It has been found difficult to make immediate repairs to the Gaulois because of stormy weather and high seas.

Complete details of the damage suffered by the forts has not been obtained, but the allied commanders believe it was serious. Fort Kum Kaleh which has been repaired by the Turks, directed an accurate fire against the warships.

Torpedo boats are dragging along the shores of the Dardanelles for the bodies of drowned sailors.

London, March 1.—The most picturesque and weird hours of all the life in the trenches is the time between sunset and the fall of darkness.

If the real picture were put on the stage it wouldn't be believed. As you sit and watch it yourself, you feel that your eyes and mind are deceiving you. As the sun sinks and grows red and the shadows grow long, the gulch of the trench fills with early night. It begins to grow cold and the frost crystals form on the muddy sides of the trenches, giving the effect of tinsel or bits of bright stones. The darkness of the trench is broken, now and then, by the flare of a cigar-

MONDAY, MARCH 22, 1915

Good evening! Evil to him who thinks evil, is a motto which you should ponder upon occasionally.

Still, it would help some if the dirt in backyards were to be hauled to the dump.

While it was at it, council should have abolished all of Stinky run, or at least its unsavory name.

Amateur gardeners are taking time by the forelock and have already set out their little onions.

The man who or newspaper which repeats a falsehood is meaner than the person who originated the lie.

Be charitable; some men's brains have been withered and warped by the use of strong drink in their younger days

Democrats in the state legislature occupy the positions of neutrals who are ready to join the anti-Brumbaugh forces, if called upon.

And now Germany has gone the whole hog and placed one million pigs in Belgium, compelling the Belgians to feed and care for them

The next two years will go slowly, but they will pass and take with them the last Democratic president to sit in the White House for many years to come.

Competent architects are now drawing the plans and specifications of the Easter bonnet, and a gorgeous arrangement of straw, feathers and ribbons may be looked for.

If the big city hunters want anything from the state legislature all they have to do is to ask for it; the country hunter, being modest takes what is given him.

These Turks and their German gunners are doing some damage to the fleet of the allies in the Dardanelles, which was to be expected, as war is by no means one-sided.

Lord Kitchener is said to have a new army of five million men ready to enter the war, and it looks as if the English have become aware that it is time for them to do some fighting.

An Indianapolis citizen testified in court that at a recent election he voted twenty-two times, a statement which will make the average Republican repeater in Philadelphia consider himself a piker.

Austria may break with Germany over the latter's demand that Emperor Franz Josef shall give Italy part of his possession to prevent Italy entering the war. The troubles of the War Lord appear to be multiplying.

The shooting of strikers by armed ruffians at Roosevelt, N. J., should cause the people of that state to demand the establishment of a state constabulary such as that in Pennsylvania. State constables never shoot down defenseless men.

Bills providing pensions for school teachers and Pennsylvania soldiers of the civil war will be introduced into the state legislature, but only for effect; the Republicans have no intention of passing any bills of this character at this time.

A bill introduced into the state legislature prohibits the killing of foxes otherwise than by racing them with horses and hounds, which bill, if it passes, would benefit the few rich people who indulge in fox chases in the eastern part of the state

In New York [illegible] school pupil who displayed [illegible] ordinary ability as a student was made a prisoner by the other students and fed some poison, causing his death. Public school boys are aping the tricks of big college students just a little too closely.

England's stress of mind may be understood when it is stated that class distinctions may be thrown overboard as a result of the war. An Englishman is a great stickler for class distinction—that social rule which calls a well dressed man a gentleman while his brother in ordinary clothes would be ignored by British society.

WANT IN FIRST PLACE

Notwithstanding the various warnings they have received from the voters of the state that further attempts to defeat the will of the people would result disastrously to the Republican party the leaders of that party now propose to amend the ballot law in such a manner that it would be impossible for the opponents of the Republican party to combine after the primaries. A bill to this effect has already been introduced in the state legislature.

If this bill becomes a law it would deprive the voters of the Democratic and Washington parties fusing after the primaries, if they felt disposed to do so. Every blow struck at fusion is a blow against popular government. When the people are prevented from voting as they please they are deprived of their rights as American citizens. The Republican party in this state has prepetrated numerous very unpopular political offenses, but it should have learned by this time that the people will not submit to being deprived of their right to combine to defeat rascality.

HEATHENISH VANDALISM

News dispatches state that on Friday night persons unknown entered the cemetery at West Catasaqua, Lehigh county, and completely ruined a large number of the tombstones and monuments. These were overturned and broken and others scratched and otherwise mutilated. One cannot help but pause to wonder to what class of human beings the men who committed this crime belong and what sort of material composes the contents of their skulls. There must have been quite a number of persons engaged in this vandalism, hence it cannot be ascribed to a single lunatic suddenly imbued with a desire to destroy man's work.

West Catasaqua cannot be proud of the thought that she harbors within her confines men who are so low as to desecrate a graveyard by tearing down tombstones and monuments erected over the graves of the dead. And yet there must be such men in that town. Possibly there are the kind of men who are found in almost all towns. Degenerates who imagine that they are having fun when they engage in crimes of this kind. Possibly these men, when younger, displayed in the streets of West Catasaqua traits of meanness which were overlooked by the citizens and ignored by the police, until these men believed they could do about as they pleased and the authorities would say nothing.

It is too often the case that what are called "rough necks" are permitted to have their own way in a town simply because they have friends in authority as burgesses or policemen. If a little more attention were paid to the antics of disturbers of the peace who give their exhibitions of "rough house" on the streets offenders against the peace of the community would not become bolder with the passage of the years and finally commit such crimes as that reported from West Catasaqua. The history of criminology proves that it does not pay a municipality to overlook or condone offenses against law and order in any of its citizens.

TODAY'S ODDEST STORY

(By United Press)

Minneapolis, Minn., March 22.—Diogenes may be headed toward Minneapolis today. Again he may not be. But if he is, he will find his honest man. He is Stanley Sallant, former dairyman at New Brighton, Minn. Just now Sallant gets his mail at the county jail. Asked during an investigation why milk is sometimes blue, he replied that he supposed other milkmen like himself watered it. It is the first time in the history of the world, so far as known, that a real dairyman has admitted the co-operation of the pump. He got ten days.

OVER THE HILLS

Oft when the world and I were younger,
Oh, we are old, so old, today,
I longed to go over the great hills yonder,
Into the world, so far away.
When the years came I met them gladly,
Oh, but they seemed so long to stay,
I hoped that each over the hills would lead me
Into the world, far away.

Care they brought me, and bitter sorrow,
Long grew the nights, and long the day,
But I dreamed of the path the great hills over,
Into the world, and far away.
"Soon thou shalt see it," my heart said to me,
"Bid thy time till the happy day;
Thou shalt go wandering the great hills over,
Into the world and far away."

Ah, but still I bide in the valley,
Darker the nights and longer the day;
And I never shall pass the great hills over,
Into the world so far away.
Many a dream had I of its beauty,
The great, fair world, so far away,
And many a song I wove about it,
I have forgotten them all today!

FRISCO GUIDES ARE UNIVERSITY MEN

(By United Press)

San Francisco, March 22.—Twenty-three universities are represented in the 59 guides employed by the Panama-Pacific exposition to assist visitors in seeing the fair.

Every one of the gray class squad is a university man, a student if not an actual graduate. They are authorized by the exposition company to hire themselves to visitors for 25 cents an hour.

"We are supposed to answer all questions within reason," said one of the guides today, "but we certainly do get some posers. A woman in the Fine Arts palace asked me to explain to her the meaning of a certain bronze piece of sculpture. I said it was a certain sculptor's conception of Eve. 'O yes,' said she, "tell me was Eve one of the Madonnas?"

New York's Dope Fiends Easily Evade the Law

By Carlton Ten Eyck

(Written for the United Press)

New York, March 22.—New York's three hundred odd thousand drug users—"dope fiends"—will not [illegible] through the workings of the new Harrison federal law which places restrictions on the sale of the "hop." They will continue to get their allotments of "snow" and "coke" through the same channels that supplied them before the law went into effect.

While the vast armies of users in Chicago, San Francisco, St. Louis, Cleveland and Boston are suffering slightly because of the curtailment of their supplies, New York's goes on sniffing day by day, their complexion becoming more sallow, their cheeks more hectic and their eyes more bright with an unnatural lustre.

It is not due to any laxity of the law in New York The authorities are just as vigilant, perhaps more so, than in the foregoing cities but what can they do? It's a question that Inspector Dwyer of "drug squad" fame would give a pretty penny to know.

"This Harrison law helps these other states," said the inspector today, "but right here in New York where the traffic is perhaps worse than any place in the world, it doesn't help us. You see we have a law in New York state for years which places practically the same restrictions on the sale of drugs as does the Harrison law. We have enforced it to the very letter, too, but the traffic still goes on and I can see no way of stopping it until our lawmakers really become cognizant of the deadliness of it.

Our law here makes it a criminal offense to sell cocaine, heroin, and morphine without a physician's prescription. The drug stores are supposed to keep a record of their sales When they get in, say ten pounds of cocoaine, they are supposed to have a record of where every ounce of that stuff went when they have sold it. We saw to it that they did, too.

"Immediately after the law went into effect there arose in New York a vast army of physicians who do nothing but write prescriptions for drugs. Crooks? Sure, they're crooks—they work in teams with the crooked druggists and New York gets its sniffs daily—and, mind you, under the law. We know it, but we con do nothing.

"For instance, we'll say you are a druggist with ten pounds of cocoaine. A physician who holds the same license that any reputable one does, writes you out prescriptions for ten pounds—making them in sufficient quantites as to make them appear regular.

"We know this druggist is selling cocaine. We raid him. He produces these prescriptions. That safeguards him. We go to the doctor that wrote them. He laughs in our faces. A man came into his office and complained of a toothache and he prescribe drugs to kill the pain, a thing which he had a perfect right to do. There you are—what are you going to do? Go to the man who had the toothache—he says he did have the pain—what are you going to do?

"That is only one phase of it. Many druggists have organized bands that sell it on the streets. The stuff is made up in what we call "decks," very small and extremely easy to hide, or get rid of. They slip it into eash other's pockets in the subway, on the elevated; they'll place it in an empty cigarette box and throw it into the gutter—oh, they're an ingenuous bunch. And a drug fiend is always good pay—for his drugs. If he doesn't pay, then his supply is cut off and he suffers the torture of the damned

[illegible] profit to be made in this traffic is the [illegible] lure that [illegible] druggists and doctor's croocked. An ounce of heroin, the most commonly used drug, costs wholesale about $3 70 Made up in decks and distributed to the ultimate consumers it nets about $[illegible]0. Thus the street man makes about $20 to $25 [illegible] profit above all overhead expenses. If he has a good trade—think what his profits must be!

"I had a plan once to stop this—that was a license only a few physicians of known repute to prescrib the stuff. But the lawyers said such an act would not be constitutional and we had to pass it up.

"The white light district is, of course the worst. A great percentage of the users are theatrical folk, who take it to get the hour's vim and "pep" it contains. Along Broadway from the twenties to the sixties, where the lights shine brightest and the women kick higher, there you'll find the great army. And, as I said before, what are we going to do?"

"COURT FANS" THRONG AT BOSTON TRIALS

(By United Press)

Boston, March 22.—Veteran court officers and reporters have discovered a new class known as "Court Fans" and these devotees of sensational testimony are running neck and neck in enthusiasm with the energetic baseball fan and the quiet, but eager, "movie fan. Of late they have been having their full share "snappy" cases, taking in each performance of the famous "Toodles" Ryan breach of promise suit,, the Herrick-Waitt case, where a young wife's love got mixed up with the wrong man, the Fairfield-Fitzpatrick tangle. Now they have all assembled to hear the Cabot will trial.

The "Court fans" have a little on the "movie" fans and the baseball fans on account of no admission being charged at the court room. However, it appears they will soon have a gloomy time as the list of sptctacular trails will be exhausted when the Cabot case is finished unless sympathetic parties start something.

TYPEWRITER MAKER SAYS PROSPERITY IS COMING

An indication that business conditions are improving is evidenced by an interview given out today by Mr. George E. Smith, President Royal Typewriter company.

"The typewriter business," said Mr Smith, "is rather a barometer of trade on account of its close association with the office end of every line of business, and our business has felt the improvement in trade conditions and the reports from our branches in almost every part of the United States have been increasing optimistic

"We haven't waited for the improvement to overtake us, however, before taking advantage of it. We learned a lesson in that regard from the automobile people. They seemed to find a way of keeping just a little in advance of what was happening, and by the use of persistent newspaper advertising they create a big new crop of automobile buyers each year. I know from experience that many automobile prospects are actually sold three and four years before they actually buy or have the money to buy. Men like Hugh Chalmers, John N. Willys, H. W. Ford, the Studebakers, Haynes, the Hudson, J. J. Cole—create demand for their cars in this way year after year successfully.

"I will say, frankly, that our determination to increase our advertising and sales work was influenced by the example of these men, who had refused to believe business was bad, and so kept up their advertising and made business good.

"The automobile manufacturers that are making the biggest [illegible] are those who have produced the right car for the people and then told the people what it was and where to get it. So it is with us in the typewriter business.

"We have looked ahead and figured out what the people wanted, and what would best suit the business man in typewriters. We made that sort of typewriter, and now we are telling the business man about it. Unless we tell them about it, we would have to wait a long time for the majority to find it out

"I think it just as important to tell people about a good typewriter as it is to make a good typewriter in the first place. Our increased output was 25 per cent up to March 15th. We have to curb our organization from being too optimistic over the outlook but conditions certainly warrant me in saying that 1915 is going to be the Royal's banner year in the domestic trade."

THREE YEANS' FIGHT AGAINST THE HOOKWORM

(By United Press.)

Dallas, Texas, March 22.—A three year's fight on hookworm disease is nearing completion today under the auspices of the State Hookworm commission. During this period the commission has examined in an area of 56,000 square miles inhabited by 1,000,000 people. Microscopic examinations to the number of nearly 65,000 have been made and perhaps 25,000 treatments have been dispensed. Among children examined the number infected was over 35 per cent.

The hookworm disease is popularly known for its effect of laziness. Dr. O. H. Judkins of the State Hookworm commission, who said it would take one or two generations to eradicate the disease in Texas, also declared:

"There is no doubt but what Texas suffers an economic loss every year because of this disease. For instance, if 1,000 heads of families in any given county are suffering from a disease that reduces their earning capacity from 10 to 25 per cent, it is not hard to see where the county and state are losing because of decreased production. It is easy to see, also that the state is squandering money by employing teachers to teach children whose efficiency is reduced on an average 25 per cent."

Hookworm is common in warm places where the inhabitants go barefooted for any length of time. The commonest infection is through the soles of the feet. The work is less than one inch in length and has the appearance of a bit of soiled coarse thread. The female lays thousands of eggs in the human intestinal tract. A certain cure is not known to doctors.

THERE'S CHANCES TO KICK WHEN COOKING IS BAD

(By United Press)

St. Paul, Minn., March 22.—For years Rep. L. A. Lydiard ate in alleged boarding houses of Minnesota and suffered. Then he began to ascend the social scale and finally became elected representative. One of the first official [illegible] was to introduce a bill which [illegible] force cooks in boarding houses and restaurants to pass an examination and secure a license. Cooks not having the official document may be prosecuted for malplactice. Being drunk for more than six continuous months is sufficient ground for revoking the license. Persons having a grievance against any cook may lay it before the board, which has the authority to call the alleged culinary offender before it, and if the allegations of the boarder are proved, the cook's license may be revoked.

Los Angeles, March 20.—Whether 120,000 acres in the San Francisco valley, the largest tract ever proposed for annexation to Los Angeles will ask for admission to the city is today being passed upon by the voters of the valley. If they favor annexation Los Angeles citizens will vote upon it.

RECIPE TO CLEAN A PIMPLY SKIN

Pimples are Impurities Seeking an Outlet Through Skin Pores.

Pimples, sores and boils usually result from toxins, poisons and impurities which are generated in the bowels and then absorbed into the blood through the very ducts which should absorb only nourishment to sustain the body.

It is the function of the kidneys to filter impurities from the blood and cast them out in the form of urine, but in many instances the bowels create more toxins and impurities than the kidneys can eliminate, then the blood uses the skin pores as the next best means of getting rid of these impurities which often break out all over the skin in the form of pimples.

The surest way to clear the skin of these eruptions, says a noted authority, is to get from any pharmacy about four ounces of Jad Salts and take a tablespoonful in a glass of hot water each morning before breakfast for one week. This will prevent the formation of toxins in the bowels. It also stimulates the kidneys to normal activity, thus coaxing them to filter the blood of impurities and clearing the skin of pimples.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, harmless and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia. Here you have a pleasant, effervescent drink which usually makes pimples disappear; cleanses the blood and is excellent for the kidneys as well.

FRENCH SCIENTISS HELP SOLDIERS WOUNDED IN WAR

Paris, March 5:(By Mail to New York)—French science has again come to the aid of the wounded in the present war. Bullets and shrapnel fragments deeply imbedded in the flesh can now be extracted without the deep probing and incisions formerly necessary.

The new method of bringing these projectiles to thesurface of the flesh by means of electric magnets has just been presented to the Academy of Medicine by professor Bergoine, the discoveror. As practically all bullets and shrapnels used in modern warfare are of steel they are capable of being magnetized and are subject to magnetic influence.

Professor Bergoine simply applies to the outside of the wound a highly potential magnetic current. This suffices to dislodge the projectile from the flesh and brings it gradually toward the surface. To prevent any further tearing of the flesh the current is applied only for a few seconds each day and the projectile is drawn so gradually towards the surface as to cause neither irritation nor pain. Finally only a slight superficial incision of the surgeon's knife is necessary for the final extraction.

The method is to be introduced at once in the military hospitals all through France.

For the first time since the foundation of the "Prix de Rome," the most coveted art scholarship in the world, the famous Villa Medici at Rome which houses France's prize students in architecture, sculpture, painting and music is without tenants With the outbreak of the war, all of the prize winners responded to the call to arms with the exception of two. These were Mademoiselle Heuvelmans and Mademoiselle Lili Boulanger,the first two girls ever to be awarded the grand prize. They at once applied for a year's leave of absence in which to serve as Red Cross nurses at the front and the Minister of Public Instruction together with the Academy of fine Arts have just granted their request.

Esperanto is hereafter to play its part in the settling of the war. Recently Germany conceived the idea of translating all of its official communications into Esperanto and sending them free of charge the world over to all devotees of the language.

Now a committee has been organized at Paris composed of such distinguished Esperantists and men as M. Appell, G. Bigourdan, His Royal Highness Prince Bonaparte, Gaston Bonnier, Dr. Charles Bouchard, Count de Gramont, General Sebert and other members of the institute. They will prepare literature in Esperanto, demonstrating the alleged untruthfullness of the German communications and give it an equal world-wide gratuitous circulation amongst Esperantists.

Imagination balks at the magnitude of $2,000,000. Only when it is translated into terms of purchasing power does it become comprehensible.

Two million dollars, for example, will support more than 2000 families of moderate income for a year.

Two million dollars will buy more than 200,000 barrels of flour, more than 50,000 sewing machines or 80,000 suits. It will give work for an entire year to 2000 men and women engaged in various productive industries and other occupations that add to the common welfare of the people in all walks of life.

It is $2,000,000 a year that the Full Crew—"excess man crew"—Laws compel the railroads of your States to pay in unearned wages. These laws deprive you of improvements for safety and comfort in travel that this money, now used unproductively, would provide.

How much longer in these times when economy is a universal necessity are you willing to endure this tremendous waste? In the end the cost bears upon you, either in increased rates or decreased service.

Will you use your influence in urging that the people's elected Representatives at Trenton and Harrisburg work and vote for repeal of the Full Crew Laws and place control of the proper manning of trains in the hands of the Public Service Commissioners?

Explaining "Memory."

When you speak of others as having a good memory, you do not mean that at all Instead of meaning that the man with a "good memory" has accurately perceived an event in the full ramifications of all its details, and recorded it in his whole human texture ready for reproduction at will, what you really indicate is that he has good power of retention, irrespective of detailed accuracy or faithfulness of the full recollection.—Dr. Leonard Keene Hirshberg

NIGHT IN TRENCHES KEEPS SOLDIERS ALWAYS ON ALERT

ette, puffed nervously, or by the flare of a rifle.

Silhouetted against the red sky is the erect figure of a Legion soldier, his glistening bayonet protruding above the trench walls and catching the dying glare of the sun's light. Further along are the ugy shadows of the machine guns, brightened by the polished brass work.

Flashing Messages

As the darkness grows deeper you catch a glimpse of a sharp pin point of light on a distant hill, which flickers, in the Morse code, a message from a French battery to its comrades many miles distant. They are talking of some new plot to kill human beings. There is a rattle of rifle, and then quick flashes, first at one point in your trench, and then in another. From afar comes the putt! putt! putt! of a Maxim gun. Nightfall is the machine gun's hour. During the hours of daylight, the machine gun men have got their ranges and fixed their aims, and now, in the darkness, when their precious guns are safest from sharpshooters, they flare out the result of the day's work.

From distant corners of the compass comes the roar of deep throated batteries.

Watching for Attacks

The stars seem all the brighter, because you are gazing at them from the bottom of your black trench. Suddenly the sky is bi-sected by an arc of sparks, terminated by a beautiful glare of pure white light, which transforms night into day for the space of many seconds. It is a night light sent up by the enemy so that they can see what we are doing. We might possibly, they think, be out of our trenches, with our bayonets fixed, charging on them through the darkness. After the white light fades the night seems darker than ever.

The bullets whistle and shriek overhead almost instantly, and all the night it will be like this, noises and lights, noises and lights. The night is filled with danger and surprises. Daylight charges were never made; it was in the night time, in the smallest, wierdest hours, that either the Germans left their trenches or we left ours, to run ahead into a hand to hand stabbing affray with the enemy.

Sight of Good Cheer

The grey of morning is a sight of good cheer. In our trench we measured the morning light by whether or not we could see the legs of "the juggler" fluttering in the wind.

"The juggler" was the corpse of a Frenchman which for six weeks lay some two hundred feet in front of our trenches, lying on his back, with arms outstretched, a canvas water bucket clutched in each hand, his legs sticking up into the air, in a spot so deadly from rifle fire that no one could reach him. The dead man lay there through the nights and days. The French called this grotesque heap "The Juggler" because they remembered that Japanese athletes stretched themselves out in this dead Frenchman's posture and tossed things about in the air with their feet.

When the rags on the legs of the "Jugler" were plainly seen, then we knew that morning had come, another night of madness had passed, and we might sleep until the night lights and the night noises broke out again at sunset.

the Germans. These men are being moved up to the front so that a big movement can be started all along the line. England will have three million more men in the fray when this move begins. Nearly a million and a half of these men have been sent across the English channel in the last few months and the rest are being rushed across every day. This movement of troops is one of the most marvelous things about the war, not a single man having yet been lost.

Losses Appalling

"The most appalling thing about the great conflict is the absolute disregard for material, both human and mechanical. Men are being killed or broken by the millions. Those who can be saved are patched up and thrown back into the fight again, while the countries are being scoured for fresh material. It is almost too staggering a figure to imagine the amount of guns, shells and other kinds of war equipment that is being reduced to junk every hour of the fight.

"Of course, I had no chance to study the German side of the question, but even they are the marvel of their rivals. How this one nation can supply and equip its forces and keep them up to the highest point of fighting efficiency in the material line, while the allies are constantly striving to keep up to the required standard is a source of great amazement. To my mind it is a question of resources and the side that first fails in this respect must go down to defeat.

German Guns Beaten

"But little has been permitted to leak out, even to the newspapers on the other side, of the preparations that England and France, but particularly the former, are making for the main drive in the spring. One of these things that has consumed the English attention has been the making of great field guns to outshoot the marvelous 42-centimetre guns of the Teutons. Leading English authorities admitted to me that they are going to give the Germans a surprise in this respect as soon as operations are opened up. The English have rushed to completion a number of big guns that will shoot as accurately and at least a mile and a half farther than the greatest the Germans have produced. This, if it proves out, will make a vast difference in the fighting along the French front.

Build Speedy Submarines

"England has also not been idle in the matter of submarines. The British have been taught a lesson by the Germans that they will long remember. Since the first successful German operations last fall the English navy yards have been working night and day to turn out larger and speedier submarine boats than those of the Germans and they are going to meet the enemy at his own game. These new English boats have the marvelous speed of thirty-one knots an hour which will make them not only faster than the German boats, but also able to outfoot the best cruisers and battleships. Besides they will have a greater cruising radius."

MINISTERS ARE ORDAINED AT THE M. E. CONFERENCE

Laymen's association met in the Presbyterian church. A number of addresses and reports were made. The membership has greatly increased owing to many revival meetings held throughout the state and country.

Governor Brumbaugh, who was to have been present at the session Saturday afternoon, sent a message expressing his inability to attend.

The anniversary meeting of the Conference Annuity and Preachers' Aid society, in the First Methodist church Saturday night, was preceded by the Drew Alumni association banquet at Edgewood park in the afternoon, each event attracting a large crowd. The anniversary of the Woman's Home Missionary society also drew many people. Mrs. James Skillington, Bloomsburg, presided. Preceding that meeting the Mutual Beneficial association held a banquet at Edgewood park.

The first Methodist church contained more than 1000 listeners yesterday when Bishop William Burt, Buffalo, delivered the forty-seventh annual conference sermon. Bishop Burt is trying earnestly to have the convention business end today.

The following ministers were ordained: Rankin S. Caldwell, Mercersburg; Luther W. McGowen, York Springs; John T Williamee, Coalport. Those made deacons were Harry L. Jarrett, Cross Fork; J. Earl Jacobs, Selinsgrove; Irvin S. Hodgson, Snowshoe, Charles T Himes, Millerstown; Franklin A. Lawson, Stormstown; Ada M Nagey, Hazleton; Albert R Harper, Penfield; L. Elbert Wilson Jeddo.

Distance of Moon From Earth.

Prosaically, the moon is distant from the earth a little less than 240,000 miles, or less than ten times the circumference of the earth This is very close for a planetary neighbor, and especially one so powerful as this erratic satellite, the diameter of which is 21,162 miles and its mass being much greater than that of any satellite of any other planet of our solar system, Mars having two, Jupiter seven, Saturn ten, Uranus four and Neptune one.

MOTHERS PENSION BILL SHOULD BE PASSED

Pittsburg, March 22.—The mothers' assistance bill, appropriating $800,000 to assist Pennsylvania mothers in rearing their children in their own homes, which was introduced in the legislature by Representative John W. Vickerman, of the Twelfth Allegheny county district, will be reported almost immediately by the house committee on pensions and gravities. The Vickerman bill was carefully prepared after a conference of the Mothers' Pension league of Allegheny county and members of the mothers' assistance boards of the various counties and it conforms in a general way with the bill introduced in the senate earlier in the session by Senator Edward C. Patton, of Philadelphia.

Mothers' pension advocates have been assured by legislative leaders that the Vickerman bill will receive practically the unanimous support of both branches of the general assembly and the result will be that Pennsylvania will have the most liberal and one of the most practical mothers' assistance acts in force among the states of the union. Governor Martin G. Brumbaugh expressed himself as heartily in favor of the Vickerman bill in conversation with the Rev. Dr. J. Leonard Levy, of Pittsburg, president of the Mothers' Pension league.

Favorable action on Representative Vickerman's bill will inaugurate an era for propaganda for mothers' pensions in the fact that the new law will provide for a state organizer whose duty it will be to interest the officers of the various counties in enforcing the act in their respective districts. This feature will have international discussion at the convention of prominent educators and advocates of mothers' pensions at San Francisco exposition July 20, 21 and 22.

STATE COLLEGE EXPERT GIVES HOME ORCHARD SUGGESTIONS

State College, March 22.—The following timely advice on establishing a home orchard has been given by Professor M. G. Kains, head of the department of horticulture, of the Pennsylvania State college

He said the home orchard should provide a succession of fruit for the greater part of the year, beginning with early cherries in July and ending with late apples. It should include also pears, peaches, plums, quinces, grapes, and all the bush fruits—currants gooseberries raspberries, blackberries and strawberries According to Professor Kains, this planting plan should furnish to the family table a daily supply of home grown fruit.

In choosing varieties, Professor Kains would select both early and late kinds; kinds suited to dessert, to cooking and preserving, and some to suit personal preferences. For instance, his list of apples to cover the season from August to May would include one or more trees of the following varieties: Primate, Sweet Bough, Early Harvest, Yellow Transparent, Chenango Strawberry, Oldenburg, Gravenstein, St. Lawrence, Fameuse, Fall Pippin, Hawley, Smokehouse, and others.

If he were restricted as to land, Professor Kains would prefer to devote less space to apples and more to pears because they are not so widely grown for the market. His list of pears would include only high quality varieties, such as the following: Tyson, Bartlett, Clapp's Favroite, Flemish Beauty, Sheldon, Seckel, Angouleme, Bosc, Anjou, Howell, Vermont Beauty, Lawrence, Comice and Easter Beurre.
